HEALTH PROTOCOL IN TOYOTA INDONESIA FOR COVID-19

Today, PT. Toyota Motor Manufacturing Indonesia (TMMIN) would like to announce that the company was made aware that one male employee in his 20's, working as a line worker in TMMIN Karawang Plant, had been confirmed as being positive for COVID-19 through PCR (Polymerase Chain Reaction) virus test, or commonly known as swab test, on May 12, 2020.

TMMIN is immediately and fully taking care of the said employee who is currently in the hospital for quarantine and under the supervision of medical experts. Following procedure and as a precautionary measure, we already conducted health protocols such as deep cleaning, trace & test, and other health protocols.

Note that none of our manufacturing and sales activities has been affected. Please also be assured that the products and services of Toyota are completely safe. We will continue to carry out activities to prevent the spread and infection of COVID-19 in every stage of car production and sales operations of Toyota Indonesia through the implementation of strict health protocols.
